Section 1 - Conflict Minerals Disclosure

Item 1.01 - Conflict Minerals Disclosure and Report

Teradyne, Inc. ("Teradyne" or the "Company") has determined that gold, columbite-tantalite (coltan) and wolframite, including their derivatives, tantalum, tin and tungsten ("Conflict Minerals"), are necessary for the functionality or production of products manufactured or contracted to be manufactured by Teradyne.

We conducted a reasonable country of origin inquiry regarding the Conflict Minerals in our products designed to determine whether any of the Conflict Minerals originated in the Democratic Republic of the Congo or an adjoining country ("Covered Countries") or are from recycled or scrap sources.

We conducted a supply-chain survey with direct suppliers using the Conflict Minerals Reporting Template and Responsible Minerals Initiative ("RMI"). We asked suppliers to determine if Conflict Minerals were necessary for the functionality of their products provided to Teradyne and, if yes, to provide information regarding the smelters and mines for the Conflict Minerals included in those products. Several of our suppliers responded that their products did not include Conflict Minerals that originated in the Covered Countries.

Based on our reasonable country of origin inquiry, we know or have reason to believe that some of the Conflict Minerals in our products originated in the Covered Countries and are not from recycled or scrap sources.

As a result of our reasonable country of origin inquiry, we engaged in due diligence on the source and custody of the Conflict Minerals in our products that originated or may have originated from the Covered Countries. We have filed a Conflict Minerals Report, describing our reasonable country of origin inquiry and due diligence findings, as an exhibit to this specialized disclosure report. We have provided that report on the Corporate Social Responsibility page on our publicly available website at www.teradyne.com/about-teradyne/corporate-social-responsibility.
